ORDER POST-DISPATCH DELIVERED BY CARRIER.

GRIEF KILLED

And James Fitzgerald Is to Die for Murdering His Fiances.

HIS MOTHER'S SAD DEATH,

When Annie Naessens' Murder Is Avenged Two Sisters Will Mourn fer the Murderer.

Since his confinement in jail for the murder of his sweetheart, Annie Naessens, on the night of Nov. 23, 1893, for which he is to be hanged next Monday, James Fitzgerald has lost every member of his family except his sister, Mrs. Annie Dolan, and his half sister, Mrs. Courtney. His sister Rose was the first to pass away married a man named Carr a year be fore the shooting, and was deserted by during her confinement, which was just when the excitement caused by her brother's crime was at its height. She died shortly after her baby was born. John Fitzgerald, the condemned man's father, left a sick bed to testify in his son's trial a year and a half ago. The shock

JAMES FITZGERALD. killed the old man. When James Fitzgerald saw his father in the court-room, emaclated by sickness and grief, he burst into tears. He begged the court to send the old man home. Later he was permitted to take a look at his dead father.

He went into hysterics over the coffin. He said over and over again: "That trial killed father; the next will kill my mother."

His words were prophetic.

Mrs. Annie Fitzgeraid, the mother, died sunday night. The doctors said pneumonia diled her. Her friends say it was a broken the fit of the mount will the foor heart. All night she would walk the floor, moaning about her son. Mrs. B. Guion, who occupied the rooms beneath hers, at No. 6204 Michigan avenue, heard the walling of the lonely mother. Mrs. Fitzgerald's sole companion was the baby daughter of Rose Carr, who died soon after her brother was arrested.

From a big, robust woman, Mrs. Fitzgerald wasted away to almost nothing. She would not eat. Every penny she could spare from her salary as janitress of the Des Peres School she used to pay attorney fees with. Deprived of the necessities of life, and without proper clothing she contracted a severe cold. Each day, morning and evening, she knelt in prayer at SS. Mary and Joseph's Church, at Minnesota and Iron avenues, for the release of her son.

and Iron avenues, for the release of her son.

She had the greatest confidence that her son was innocent. The thought that despite this he would be hanged almost drove her insane.

Friday she became unconscious from a raving fever. She was missed at the church. Saturday a committee from the church. Saturday a committee from the church called on her and medical aid was summoned. Rev. Fr. Tobyn Sunday morning asked that prayer be offered for the recovery of Mrs. Fitzgerald. At 8 p. m. she died. Her last words were to M. Courtney, husband of her step-daughter. He came to tell her that the Governor had refused to interfere, but he couldn't deliver the message to the dying mother.

"Will they let my boy live?" she asked, and then death claimed her.

There was a little band of friends beside the coffin all Monday night. The death of Annie Naessens followed by the wiping out of the Fitzgerald family was discussed in whispers. Fear seemed to exist that the mother lying in the coffin would hear that all hope was gone. One matron who came from ireland with the deceased, orted her-self sick, and was taken to her home by friends.

from ireland with the deceased, crief herself sick, and was taken to her home by friends.

All Carondelet is in excitement over the death of the mother. The condemned man was born and raised in that portion of the city. The sympathy of every one is with him. Almost to a man they believe in his innocence. Mike Courtney, the husband of Fitzgerald's half-sister, has worked heroleally for him. Recently he sent a petition for clemency to the Governor signed by nearly 2,000 persons. Letters were also addressed to Gov. Stone by Nicholas Bell, Charles Higgins, James Bannerman, Dr. Otto Forster, John A. Lee, George W. Allen, John B. O'Meara, Tom Ward, Harry Guimsburg and John Scullin.

On Nov. Il Gøv, Stone replied to the petition. He said that as the evidence was wholly circumstantial and that there was an absence of a motive, a doubt might exist, but he did not interfere.

Satürday another communication was sent the Governor. It contained the sworn statement of Schiebe, who took a drink with the condemned man on the night of the shooting, and to whom Fitzgerald spoke of shooting, and to whom Fitzgerald acknowledged making some such statement while partially drunk, but he claimed he referred to bames Burke, a brother molder, with whom he had had some trouble.

In his statement to the Governor Schiebe, says that he, may have been mistaken in his belief that Fitzgerald referred to the dead girl; also that he knew that Fitzgerald had had trouble with Burke.

Another circumstance cited in favor of Fitzgerald is that Annie Naessens' parents have left the city. Fitzgerald's friends claim that her parents could have saved him from the galows if they would but tell what they knew. Fitzgerald on the stand and that their knew. Fitzgerald on the stand and that they knew. Fitzgerald on the stand and that they knew. Fitzgerald on the stand and that her parents could have saved him from the galows if they would but tell what they knew. Fitzgerald on the stand and that they knew. Fitzgerald on the stand and that here parents had mean it was because her parents didn't care for her.

The defendant further testified that she then put her arms around him, saying:
"There is only one will stop me—that is you. I don't want to die alone. Will you die with me?" He said he didn't realize the true meaning of these words, and answered "Yes." The next moment, he said, she shot him in the head. A second before, he claimed, his sweetheart said: "Jim, if I don't kill you, don't tell anybody about it." He lay dazed for a minute. Then he staggered to the station with all possible speed-told them where Annie lay and with his promise before him, he told a story of how some unknown person had shot both of them.

when he learned she was dead and that he was in danger of being hanged, he told the above story, but the jury convicted him. He said that Annie's parents knew of her threats to kill herself because they didn't know anything of the sort.

Before they left Courtney says they told him that they never thought Fitzgerald did the shooting. He was preparing to have them write to this effect to the Governor, but they left the city.

Courtney claims that on another occasion they said that James had already suffered enough for his part of the rounder.

Fitsgerald was convicted of the murder of Annie Naessens on Nov. 29, 1894. As stated above, there was no eye-witness, and she never spoke after the fatal shot. He was convicted wholly on circumstantial evidence. His own words before the tragedy and his contradictory statement afterwards convicted him.

Annie Naessens was 18 years of age; Fitsgerald 25. Annie was employed as a servant at Emil Albintz's saloon, at 7001 South Broadway. She and Fitsgerald were to have been married on Nov. 10, but James lost his position and the wedding was postponed. Annie became despondent and she had been weeping previous to the shooting on the night of Nov. 23, 1893. James called and was with her until the shooting.

All American citizens. Get them out of grasp of Spanish authorities."

Mr. Call offered a resolution reciting the arrests and directing the executive authorities to ascertain if any just cause for such action existed, and if not to demand the immediate release of the prisoners.

Mr. Hoar suggested that the tone of the resolution was too imperative. There seemed to be an idea, Mr. Hoar said, that the Senate of the United States is a constantly loaded cannon which can be touched off at any time by a Senator. The Senator urged an inquiry by the State Department before a demand.

Mr. Call answered that he wishes to know whether the American flag afforded any protection of its citizens. He referred to the arrests of Americans in Cuba, while citizens of other countries were not disturbed.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—A special to the Daily News from Washington says: Associate Justice Field has yielded to the long standing desire of President Cleveland and agreed to retire.

He will go upon the retired list at the close of this term of the Supreme Court, if he keeps the promise he made recently to the Persident and Senator White of California.

The Senator is authority for the above statement and for the information that the name of Justice Field's successor has been practically agreed upon in the person of Judge Erskine M. Ross, whom President Cleveland, in his first term, appointed on the United States Circuit bench in the State of California.

Judge Ross: nomination will be satisfactory to Justice Field, effected recently at the White House.

WEYLER SAILS FOR HAVANA. Spain's Hope, Crushed to Earth, Has Risen Once More.

MADRID, Jan. 21 .- Gen. Valeriano Weyler, the newly-appointed Captain-General of Cuba, left this city last evening on his way to Havana. A large crowd of people greeted him at the depot. In a brief speech in response to the enthusiastic greeting of the populace, Gen. Weyler said he strongly hoped to be able soon to announce the complete re-establishment of the sovereignty of Spain over Cuba.

The Queen Regent has cabled her thanks to Marshal Campos for his services rendered to Spain as Captain-General of the sland of Cuba.

The consensus of opinion here is that the superseding of General Campos will greatly improve the situation in Cuba. The military journals of Madrid censure General Campos and declare that his splitting up his 100,000 followers into small sections to protect rural property has been the chief cause of the extension of the Cuban revolt.

The harbor presented a scene of great animation, being crowded with all manner of craft with gay colors flying, the yellow flag of Spain giving the predominating tings to the effect. A special steamer carried the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Produce Exchange and the private yachts showed their decks gay with the attire of many ladies. Gen. Marin and the five members of his family were on one of the yachts which escorted the Alfonso Doce down the harbor. The wharf was black with people as the boats floated past and all shouted vivas for Campos. The General's sons, his aides, his chief of staff and Gen. Arderius, his brother-in-law, and second in command, accompanied him.

VERIFIED CIRCULATION.

FROM A LETTER TO CHAS. H. JONES, EDITOR AND MANAGER. We find the books and records of the Post-Dispatch are kept in such a business-like way that it was an easy matter for us to obtain quickly any information that was called for. We first investigated the six months' eirculation statement which you have published from April to September inclusive, and find the same verified byyour books and records.

The average per day for the six months was daily and Sunday, 79, 020 copies; daily, week days only, 78,759; Sunday only, 80,598.

We then investigated the circulation for the six months, ending December 31st, showing an average for six months, daily and Sunday, 79,858; daily, week days only. 79,236; Sunday only, 83,642. We investigated likewise the circulation figures for the month of December, which shows a circulation of 88,502 daily and Sunday; daily, week days only, 88,084; Sunday only, 85,999, a steady increase over previous months.

The new scheme of the Mafia is in the counterfeiting line, and the plan involves a simultaneous movement in all parts of the country. A large amount of spurious coin and bank notes is to be put out at the same time, in order to flood the country before any report is made to the Faderal authorities of the existence of the spurious money. The Mafia's plans are disseminated by messengers, who know full well that death awaits them if they are discovered or give any information about their business. The Secret Service agents are baffled in their investigation of the Maña's work by the scarcity of informers among them. The Italian who turns informer condemns himself to death, and the murder will be done in a way which will prevent detection. Members of the Household Rebelled, but Their Protests Were Set Aside as Baseless Envy.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 21 .- That the presence of Mrs. Dimmick in Gen. Harrison's family while he was President caused his wife many pangs and cooled the affection of his daughter, Mrs. McKee, for her father, admits of no doubt now that the announcement of his engagement has opened the lips of friends of the family, who have kept silence up to this time.

Friends in Indianapolis of Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Russell Harrison and of the late Mrs. Benjamin Harrison are surprised and annoyed at the persistent reports from New York that the children of ex-President Harrison are reconciled to his approaching marriage. Mrs. Dimmick is persona non grata to the Harrison family.

The true story of the acquaintance and courtship is rather sensational. It is stated in advance that Mrs. Dimmick's character as a woman is in no way involved.

That she has exercised over Gen. Harrison an influence which interfered with the domestic peace of the family and that he permitted and encouraged that influence is the most serious charge involved. The trouble really began before Harrison's election in 1888. During the excitement of the campaign Mrs. Harrison invited Mrs. Dim-mick to visit her at Indianapolis.

Mrs. Dimmick was in poor health at that time and the idea was that the life and excitement of politics would divert her mind. Mrs. Dimmick at once began to take a very active part in the Harrison family affairs. Her influence over Gen. Harrison quickly became very strong. After some months, and before the family went to Washington, Mrs. Harrison discussed with an intimate friend in Indianapolis the best way of getting Mrs. Dimmick out of the family. nick to visit her at Indianapolis.

A Chicago Architect Imported by the National Committee to Design the Convention Hall.

The easy victory won yesterday by Col. "Tim" Byrnes of Minneapolis for Sergeant-at-Arms of the Republican National Convention means more than a personal triumph or the recognition of section. It means that there is a distinct agreement imong the McKinley and Allison managers a belo one another.

among the McKinley and Allison managers to help one another.

One of Col. Byrnes' closest friends made this statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning in almost the identical words in which it is made here:

Said he: "Johnson of Maryland was absolutely certain of getting the office of Sergeant-at-Arms and so expressed himself, even while the sub-committee was balloting. How he happened to feel so sure I do not know, as the committeemen themselves would talk to no one about the contest. But we had the most positive assurances that Johnson's confidence had no foundation and knew weeks ago that Byrnes was going to be elected.

"Soon after the meeting of the Republican National Committee, at which the date and place of the convention were fixed, Byrnes and I went to New York to meet Clarkson and Hahn, whom we knew to be in that city. We saw them together at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and when Byrnes' candidacy was first mentioned they gare us no encouragement whatever. We were ac persistent, however, that finally Gen. Carkson, said: Well, what will you do for Allicon in Minnesota if I vote for you for Sergeant-at-Arms?' Most anything you say,' we beth promptly responded. 'And what will gou do for McKinley up there if I vote for you?' asked Mr. Hahn. "We gave the Ohioan fo understand that the people of Minnesota could very easily be wen over te McKinley, and that while, of course, the delegation to St. Louis might be nominally dominated by Allison men, yet me instructions would be given and that we would see to it that the delegation was of such a character as could be easily swung over to McKinley when Gen. Clarkson released us from our obligation. 'Good,' said Hahn. 'You are all right,' Clarkson and Hahn said in chorus, 'and we'll do what we can to make Byrnes Sergeant-at-Arms of the convention." 'And sure enough they did," the Minnesotan went on to say proudly. "They both yoted for Byrnes on the first ballot, and I

The gentleman who told this story looked frightened after he had let it slip, and then begged the Post-Dispatch reporter not to print it. He was made somewhat composed again when assured that his name would not be used.

"If anybody can straighten this thing out Adler is the man," said Mr. Manley in a spirit of explanation to the local committeemen for the National Committee's conduct in importing a man here to do the work which the local committee had undertaken.

"Why, how do you do, Mr. Adler?" said Architect Taylor as he approached the Chicagoan and grasped his hand cordially. "I am very glad, indeed, to have the benefit of your experience in such matters. We've worked together before, and I am sure we can make a success of this."

And then Mr. Taylor took the Chicago architect aside to explain the various designs for the hall, which he has already drawn at the suggestion of the local committee.

Sergeant-at-Arms Byrnes started to tell Gen. Clarkson of what an enormous seating capacity could be obtained by so locating the platform as to utilize the entire east nave as well as the north nave. "Why," exclaimed the Sergeant-at-Arms with enturangement we can comfortable soat 2,000 people at the convention."

"Oh, pshaw!" blurted the lows Presidentmake. "Nobody wants that many people in a convention. And, besides, if your idea were adopted, the bulk of the spectators would be so far away from the platform and the main body of the delegates that they could not hear a word. When they can't hear they begin to laugh and talk among themselves and raise so much mischief that the Angel Gabriel himself could not keep them quiet. Then, too, the really interesting speeches of conventions are not those delivered from the platform, but those that bubble up spontaneously from the body of the delegates. In order for the spectators to hear all that is of interest none of them must be more than 180 feet from the platform, and this hall must be so arranged somehow as to meet that requirement.

Then turning to the architects Gen. Clarkson said: "You gentlement but your heads together and make some sort of a report to us at the Southern Hotel at 2 o'clock this afternoon."

The visitors then started on their tour of inspection of the building.

FRED SIMON AND HIS PARAMOUR,

Eloping Newark Couple Caught in a Reoming House.

DENIES HE IS A MURDERER.

Says He Didn't Kill His Children or Put Poison in His Wife's Medicine.

If Frederick Simon of 242 Hunterton street Newark, N. J., is as innocent as he says he is he will still have difficulty in explaining Katie Spirak's statement of his hasty de parture from Newark. Simon and the girl were arrested Monday night at 723 North Desmond, Capt. Michael O'Malley of the Central Police District and Policeman Mo

Central Police District and Policeman McGlynn on a telegram from Newark.

The story of their elopement and the charges against Simon of forgery, embezzlement, child-murder and attempted uxorcide was told exclusively in Monday's PostDispatch. The Furiong Detective Agency had been searching for the couple several days, but failed to locate them.

Chief Desmond found the couple in a rooming-house and their arrest followed. They had been in St. Louis since last Wednesday.
On Saturday Simon went to work at the McKinney bakery as a driver. The authorlices received the telegram for his arrest Monday afternoon, located him after a round of the bakeries, and then shadowed the house.

He was 3 years and 4 months old. He was taken sick with measles, inflammation of the lungs and bronchitis. The measles went in and he didn't get well. Katie caught the measles and then had scarlet fever and bronchitis.

"Their mother didn't take care of them. I had a doctor, but they died. I didn't polson them. That is a story my mother-in-law fixed up. She got tipped off about my going with Katie Spirak and told that story after I ordered her out of the house the Saturday night before I left."

"Why were you in such a hurry to get the insurance money on the children?"

"I wanted to get away with Kate Spirak. I didn't forge the check. I asked my wife to sign dt, but she wouldn't, and she fold me to sign her name to it and I did. Then was perfectly well when he left home and he had made no attempt upon her life. He stated, too, that the only way he could account for a charge of embezzlement against him was the fact that he owed Mangel & Schmidt, for whom he drove a route, about $6 from collections.

Katle Spirak is from Hungary. She has been in America about five years, all the time in Newark. For several months she lived with a family near Simon's home. She is still infatuated with Simon.

Simon was placed in the holdover and the girl was turned over to Matron Harris, Katle Spirak is an unsophisticated young woman, 25 years old, according to her own statement. She is not pretty.

Simon, who says he is 27 years old, is dark. The woman is a blonde. He has a sinister expression, heightened by a thindropping black mustache. As he talked with a Post-Dispatch reporter in the Four Courts holdover he slouched down in his chair and his soft felt hat was pulled down over his eyes. He spoke in an abrupt manner, but freely answered all questions. Although denying the charges, Simon's story of his elopement is interesting.

He was first asked about the death of his children and his wife's mysterious illness, and replied as follows:

"The little girl Katle died on Jan. 10. She had been sick about five days. She was a year and three months old. Freddie died on Jan. 7. He had been eick eleven days. He was 3 years and a months old. Insane Wife and a Drunken Husband in the Hespital.

The Kappessen family, who live at 1824 South Ninth, have lately figured in a chapter of mishaps, interwoven with many pathetic features. Monday night, Charles Kappessen.

Monday night, Charles Kappessen, a wood carver in the employ of the Koken Barbers' Supply Co., was taken to the City Hospital in a violent state of delirium tramens. His wife, Pauline, was taken to the same institution last Friday mentally unbalanced. She had tried to kill herself and her fifteen-months-old babe by rushing in front of an electric car and lying on the track. She was then taken to the Hospital and confined in a cell. Saturday she appeared quite rational, but Tuesday morning was raving. She insists that her husband called her a hog and said she was an ugly old woman. Of everybody that goes near her cell she wants to know if she really is a hog.

Since she has been in the hospital her husband has tried to drown his sorrow in Attorney Adams Claims He Was Wrongfully Disbarred.

Presents Decuments to Preve That He Has a Right to Practice in St. Louis Courts.

Attorney Oscar Percival Adams, who was recently disbarred from practicing in the Court of Criminal Correction by Judge David Murphy, makes some very serious charges against the bench, which will be rehearsed at the coming trial.

In his answer to the alternative writ of mandamus recently granted Mr. Adams, Murphy charges that the plaintiff has no standing at either the St. Louis or Missouri bar, claiming that he fraudulently procured a license to practice and thereby imposed upon the court. Murphy also declares that Adams is not a man of good moral character, that his habits are so disgustingly filthy, that he is not fit to appear in a court-room and associate with gentlemen and also that Adams dishonestly exacts fees from prisoners and renders no services in return.

The charges, Adams claims, are untrue, and he backs up his statement with documents, papers of citizenship, license to practice law, letters of recommendation from prominent lawyers and an explanation and denial of the charge of dishonestly obtaining fees from prisoners.

"I began the Practice of law in the Stale if from prominent lawyers and a capitation and denial of the charge of dishonestly obtaining fees from prisoners.

"I began the practice of law in the State of Texas in March 5, 1883," said Mr. Adams, "My application for a license was signed by the best lawyers in the State. I have the papers to show it.

"In 1891 I came are and secured my citizen papers May 8, 1822. Judge Murphy the charged I was not a citizen. Richard E. Sloan, Circuit Clerk, signed the papers. I applied for admission into the Missouri and St. Louis bar in March, 1895, and was successful. Judge J. R. Claiborne and Judge J. M. Ballthorpe, the latter from Texas, indorsed my application. If Judge Murphy says I got it fraudulently he also touches upon the veracity of the indorsers of my application.

"In regard to getting money from clients and not appearing for them—Ed McCarthy was arrested, charged with highway robbery, alleged to have been committed on Dec. S. He said that his brother Thomas would pay his attorney's fees. The defendant told me that he was at Alton on the night of the robbery. I wrote there and received letters from persons who saw him. I showed them to Judge Murphy and secured a continuance to give me time to get the evidence in legal shape. In the meantime I received word from McCarthy's relative that he would not pay attorney's fees. This let me out. When the case was called McCarthy was released,
"I did not know the case was coming up for trial. My office is directly across the street from the Four Courts and if I had been notified I would have gone over, despite the absence of a fee. The next thing I knew Judge Murphy, without giving me an opportunity to defend myself, disbarred me, which in itself is lilegal.

"Since that time I have been informed by an attorney, whose name I can supply, if necessary, that Judge Murphy, said he had no use for me, because he thought I was a Roman Catholic. He told another attorney, whose name I have, that he would break up my practice in his court. I can also divulge this name if it become also divuige this name if it becomes necessary.

"Archie Carr and Attorney William Zachritz spoke to Murphy in my behalf. Mr. Zachritz told him that he had better secall his decision and save the necessity of legal proceedings, and Murphy replied, 'No, I hate him.

"According to a recent decision in the Supreme Court Judge Murphy had no right to disbar me without giving me a chance to defend myself. A large amount of my practice brings me in Judge Murphy's Court. Cases that began months ago are coming up and I cannot attend to them. My practice is being greatly injured by Judge Murphy's cotton, which is illegal. From what I have learned it is merely his personal enmity against me that caused him to act as he did.

Mr. Clover then moved that the cases be dismissed for want of prosecution.

Attorney Sharp said: "Your Honer, I wish it to be distinctly understood and also entered upon the records of this court that this is the third time these cases have been called for trial. Each time the defendants have been present in court ready for trial, but on no occasion have the witnesses for the prosecution seen fit to be present. In dismissing these cases I request that Your Honor make an entry on your docket stating that you do so because there is not a particle of evidence to show that either defendant is guilty as charged."

Judge Peabody then discharged the defendants and stated that he would make the entry as requested by Mr. Sharp.

In speaking of the cases afterwards Mr. Sharp said:

They got me into a big cage like a mouse trap with a trap door at the bottom. The bottom of the cage was covered with brussels carpets and had an elegant saloon at one end.

"They let me down the trap door three times, but each time I pulled myself up again, like you pull up a dummy watter. The sides of the dungeon they let me down into was covered with pickled human bodies and all around was hung little pots filled with people's livers."

After this thrilling escape Minnie was placed in a cell at the Hospital. A few hours later she broke out and got away.

While Stella Shaw, who did the shooting, and Photographers Outwater and Rush, who were in the gallery at the time, unite in a declaration that it was purely accidental, some of the incidents are curious.

According to Outwater, the girls went to the gallery about 10:30 o'clock Monday morning and spent nearly four hours there. Maggie Heilman insists that they were not there over an hour. Neither is she so sure it was purely accidental. She doesn't make any statement to the contrary, and is willing to admit it was an accident, but says there is a possibility that Stella was jealous. Maggie doesn't feel very kindly toward her chum of yesterday. She says Stella had no business fooling with the gun. Prior to the sheoting Maggie and Stella had no quarrel and the only explanation the injured girl can give is that the bullet passed through the door and struck her in the back. She says they had never met Outwater and Rush before Sunday afternoon, when Stella Shaw and she went to the gallery to have some tin-types taken. The men were busy and told the girls to come back Monday.

Maggie says positively her communication with the men was of a purely business

Witness After Witness Being Called to Give Some Instance of the Defendant's Odd Ways.

From Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

UNION, Mo., Jan. 21.—The defense keplon its work of piling up evidence of Duestrow's recent eccentricities, this moraling going over and over again the peculiarities and absurd vagaries which led this person and that to believe the defendant of unsound mind. All this evidence is not es-sential for the proof of his eccentricity, but the defense is corroborating and reiterating all they possibly can, with a view to get-ting the jury away from the impression made by the State's case in chief, by its exposition of the facts relative to the deed itself. oney that can be intervened between this evidence and the time for the jury's de-cision, no matter whether it is their own or the State's, on scientific matters, the betor the State's, on scientific matters, the better it is for them.

Dr. A. S. Grantham of Labadie was the first witness this morning. He was recalled by the defense and invited to tell the result of his visits to Duestrow since the homicide. He did not qualify as an expert. He described his various wisits and the delusions which seemed to possess the defendant, and which led him to his belief in the man's insanity.

Mr. Zachritz, In his cross-examination, rattled the witness somewhat by quizzing him on his abilities to discover shamming in the insane, but refuge was successfully taken by the doctor behind the fact that he had not qualified as an expert and so he escaped.

Dr. J. M. Perkins of Lebanon, who was a classmate of Duestrow's in the Missouri Medical College narrated a few recultur-tities, which made him think the man was weak-minded.

ities, which made him think the weak-minded.

Thos. Champion, a retired police officer, who had known Duestrow from boyhood, related the latter's suspecting character and his staring habit. When asked whether or not he had formed an opinion as to the soundness of Duestrow's mind, he said that he thought he had "a boylsh, foolish way" about him, but further than this he would

Miss Mary Warne, the female guard in the jail, was the next witness. She had known Duestrow since her appointment, last June.

"His case interested me very much," she said, "and I watched him all the time. I watched him once when you were there, Gov. Johnson, reading a brief to him. You were looking worried and serious and he was laughing."

were looking worried and serious and he was laughing."
Never mind how worried Gov. Johnson looked," said Mr. Zachritz sareastically.
Miss Warne went on to tell of sending Duestrow some cake and wine. It made him sick, and when she told him he ought to take medicine, he said it was not the confinement, but the great work he was doing for the President of the United States. The megroes in the jail, he told the witness, were trying to hoodoo him.

The witness cited other delusions of the prisoner, among them his sending of flowers to his wife. She had never seen him notice the women in the jail as the other prisoners were in the habit of doing. She was very positive in her own mind that Duestrow is insane.

On cross-examination Miss Warne admitted that she had gone into this examination of Duestrow in the jail with her mind thoroughly made up that the man was insane.

"I did not believe," she said impressively in explanation, "that a man could this shoot his little boy and be in his right mind at the time."

Miss Warne in referring to the homicide.

ation that Dreher was a thousand times erazier than Duestrow and wanted to know if she didn't know it. He wanted to know if two juries had not declared the man insane. The witness said "yes," and this raised a howl from the defense. The Court, however, overruled their objection.

Miss Warne was very stubborn in her in-

Miss Warne was very stubborn in her insistence on her position, reiterating it again and again, despite every tack of the Circuit Attorney. The parting shot of Goy. Johnson was a good one.

"Well. Dreher is still in jail and being prosecuted by Mr. 'Zachritz, isn't he?" asked the lawyer.

"Yes," said the witness, and the St. Louis delegation laughed.

James J. Wiet, one of "Butch" Wagner's jail guards, followed Miss Warne. He was very much prejudiced against Duestrow when he became a guard last May. For some months he had nothing to do with him. Then out of curiosity he cultivated him. One day in the fall Duestrow told him with tears streaming down his cheeks that his boy was not dead. He had been shot slightly in the rib, but recovered.

Wiet also told of Duestrow's sending flowers to his wife and child. He was anxious to take a plea, the witness said, having written to Zachritz offering to accept any term of years. His reason for this was that then his wife would find out his condition, appear in court and cause his release. Weit's conclusion was that the defendant is insane.

The cross-examination of Wiet did not shake his testimony which is new and considered about the strongest the defense has yet produced.

Ben Glietz, another jail guard, gave testimony practically the same as Weit. The saltent features of Glietz's cross-examination was that he admitted that 'Duestrow had never mentioned to him any of his delusions about his hypnotism, thought transference or telephones being under his bed. Glietz said that no expert could convinge him that Duestrow was sane. With the close of his examination court adjourned for the noon recess.

Late yesterday afternoon Barney Ruhr, the good-natured ex-jail guard, had his Teutonic phegm so aroused that he got into a fight. The victim of his wrath was John Pohlman, a miller near Union.

Pohlman was discussing Barney's presence in Niemeyer's saloon and remarked that the ex-jail guard had come for the purpose of testifying to Duestrow's insanity. Why this should have aroused the St. Louisan's ire is inexplicable, as this was exactly his purpose here, but in some way it warmed him up.

purpose here, but in some way it warmed him up.

Pohlman was talking to some friends at the time and Barney went out for reenforcements in the shape of James Rickaby, who is six feet tall and weighs about 200 pounds. Returning with this backing he gave Pohlman a piece of his mind and when the miller resented Barney landed a stm punch on his head. Pohlman grabbed his hat and fled from the saloon, leaving Barney to tell his friends how it happened.

Yesterday's evening's session was devoid of excitement. A. G. Beckman, a former school-mate of Duestrows, testified that the latter was a dull hoy in school.

William Bird, colored, who had-known Duestrow while a porter at the Circle, and who had afterwards become a servant for him, testified to his kindness to his wife and child. He gave several instance of the suppose of the selection of the hunting of the come of the suppose of these latter occa.

Ex-Jail Guards Rickaby and herman Ruhr gave their testimony as to Duestrow's delusions about telephones and hypnotic powers, and his attempt at suicide while in Jail. The testimony was the same as that given by them three times before. It bears upon the question of paranola and hence came within the range of the two proceedings on Duestrow's mental condition held here prior to the last trial.

Dr. Alex Jordan was the last witness of the day and was only asked about his being called to attend Duestrow after the latter's last attempt at suicide.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

That and Not a Row Is the Trouble With Missouri's Woman Suffragists.

In answer to the anti-W. C. T. U. side of the controversy in the Missouri Equal Suffrage Association over delegates to the National Convention at Washington, Mrs. Addie E. Johnson, President of the association, has several things to say. She states that the controversy is in no sense a row, but merely an honest difference. row, but merely an honest difference of opinion. She also denies that the W. C. T. U. entered into consideration with her when she appointed delegates, as was stated by Maj. Merwin in Monday's Post-Dispatch. To a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday she said:

Maj. Merwin in Monday's Post-Dispatch. To a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday she said:

"At the State Equal Suffrage Convention, which met in St. Louis last spring, the National President, Susan B, Anthony, presided. It was a one-day session. The weather was very warm, and all who attended the meeting had been present at a two days' session of the Mississippi Valley Congress of Women, held just before the convention. For these reasons much work was left undone which should have been attended to, among other things the electing of delegates to represent Missouri at the national convention of the society.

"In the fall an effort was made to hold another convention to finish the work left undone at the spring meeting, the call for which went out with the consent and approval of the National Officers. The National Executive Committee secommended a plan for organizing States. The plan was not a practical one for Missouri at this time—in fact it could not be carried out here (later it might do), so the Chairman if the National Organization Committee, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Cat, of New York, was invited to attend the convention and consented by her coming. First that another plan for State work might be laid before her and its advantages pressed at a time when she was on the field, and could see the advantages of it, and second that through the fecture she would deliver, the expenses of the meeting could be made. Two weeks before the convention was to have convened, Mrs. Catt found it would be impossible for her to come West, so there was nothing to do but call off the meeting, as the work for which it was called could not be done and no way to meet the expenses was open to us at such short notice.

"If the convention had been held, the delegates to the National Convention would

"If 'the convention had been held, the delegates to the National Convention would have been elected. The delegates represent the State of Missouri, not the local club of which they are members, the local club being auxiliary to the State Association in turn auxiliary to the National Acceptant was not which they are members, the local can be ing auxiliary to the State Association in turn auxiliary to the National. As the delegates were not elected, I wrote to the National officers for instructions as to the manner in which they should be chosen, and Miss Anthony and Mrs. Catt wrote me to have them elected by the State Executive Committee by correspondence. This I did.

"Every member of the committee voted except one. They were not appointed by me, nor did I try to influence their vote, except to advise that it take in the different sections of the State. In this way two members were chosen from the Kansas City Club, a much older club under the National American Woman's Surrage Association.

"I did not believe," she said impressively in explanation, "that a man could this shoot his little boy and be in his right mild at the time."

Miss Warne in referring to the homicide used the word accident several times. Mr. Zachritz became indignant and seemed to think that she had been put up to this. The witness explained that she used these words because since he was insane she could not conscientiously call it murder.

During her direct examination Miss Warne had said that Duestrow once referred to the condition of Charles Dreher, who was alleged to be simulating insanity. Mr. Zachritz took this up and drew from the witness an expression of her belief in Dreher's sanity.

Mr. Zachritz followed this with the declaration that Dreher was a thousand times erazier than Duestrow and wanted to know the solution of the too with the words to know the service of the conditions of the conditions of the conditions of the condition of the service of the service of the condition of the service of the service of the condition of the service of the service of the condition of the service of the service of the condition of the service of the servic prominent Woman Suffragists years before they were W. C. T. U. women, and both are able speakers and organizers. Of the other two delegates, Mrs. L. Ballinger Lindsay of Carthage is an ordained minister of the Christian Church, and is a fine speaker, while Mrs. Dobyns, our State Vice-President, is well known throughout the State. "I have never tried to make the Suffrage Association a tail-and of the W. C. T. U. but I have great respect for the people who pay the bills, and as that organization has furnished all the money to carry on the work of the last two State Conventions of Suffragists and the workers to do the work of the last two State Conventions of Suffragists and the workers to make a continual fight on them. One-half of the members of the St. Louis Club are W. C. T. U. women, and there are not twenty good workers for the cause of Woman's Suffrage in the State outside of that Society. The delegates from the State will not attend the National Convention and the delegates from the State will not attend the National Convention and the delegates from the St. Louis Club will be seated; of this there is no doubt, but that does not make it right."

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 21.-Ex-Senator T C. Platt wires the Commercial-Gazette his reasons why Gov. Levi P. Morton should be reasons why Gov. Levi P. Morton should be chosen as the Republican candidate for President. The ex-Senator says, in part, over his signature:

"The Republican party of the State of New York named Gov. Levi P. Morton as its candidate for President of the United States and pledged him 'the loyal and unstinted support of New York in the coming Republican National Convention' as long ago as the 17th of last September, in the State Convention at Saratoga.

"Forty years have elapsed since the organization of the National Republican party, and its nominating conventions have assembled a half a score of times in five different cities; yet the Empire State has never had one of her citizens honored by a nominating convention of the party ever been held within its borders.

"For twenty years no Republican President has been chosen without the electoral vote of New York, and it is far from likely that the precedents of a quarter of a century are to go astray in the contest of 1896. While every thoughtful man has recognized that here was the real battle-ground of every presidential contest, and that the result depended upon the outcome here, the Democratic party alone has endeavored to make assurance doubly sure by taking their candidate from the State which was at the same time the most important and the most doubtful, and, beginning with McCleilan, in 1861, their nominee in every shatance has been practically a resident and a citizen of New York.

"The time has now come for the assembled representatives of the national Republican party to listen to the voice of New York when she asks for the nomination of Gov. Levi P. Morton as her candidate as President of the United States. He has been a member of Congress, Minister to France, Vice President of the United States and Governor of the State of New York we offer him as the Republican candidate for President, with the full knowledge that some of the gravest problems which have arisen in the history of our Government will be resented to the next national administration for so Instead of this, however, plaintiff claims that the remains were placed in one grave and that the identity of the same has been lost, that the headstones were destroyed and the graves were deservated. Special to The Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 21.—Hon. Oscar Turner, who attained fame in Congress over a decade ago, and became known all over the country as "the outlaw," is dying at his home in this city. He is about 80 years old. Judge Turner became noted and gained his sobriquet by a series of remarkable races for Congress from the First Kentucky District. Although a Democrat he ran for Congress as an Independent candidate, and in defiance of party will and so successful and popular was he that under these conditions he was sent to the National Legislature three successive terms. So impossible were the efforts to oust him that he was dubbed "the outlaw" and so became generally known. He had been in private life for ten years.

It has been the custom in Missourl, as in other States, for the convention that elects delegates to the National Convention to express the views of Missouri on current political issues. This is properly done, partly as a guide to the delegates chosen, and partly as a notifiof the views and convictions that will Convention.

For example, in the State Convention that elected delegates to the Democratic National Convention in 1892, a very ong and explicit platform was adopted and no doubt had its weight in other States, especially those that lie in the same group with Missouri. In addition to this declaration of principles and as a part of the regular platform, the State Convention gave explicit instructions to the delegates to the National Convention as to Missouri's choice for President and as to what the delegates should do in furthering that choice.

The proposition to hold a dumb convention, at a time when other States are sure to give forcible expression to their views, is an affront to Missouri Demo crats and if acted upon would make them ridiculous in the eyes of the nation

SPEAK OUT, COL. MORRISON!

The revival of the Morrison boom sug ests a pertinent and important ques Where does Col. Morrison stand on the predominant issue of American politics at the present time?

Col. Morrison has hitherto been put forward by his friends as the father of tariff reform. His championship of a tariff for revenue only has been the basis of his claim to Presidential honors. But tariff reform has grown beyond parental care and needs no champion. It has been laid aside for the present until another great issue can be determined— until another fight for the plain people against the plutocrats can be fought out

The money question will be the su-preme issue of the approaching campaign. If Col. RAILEOAD IN THE OZARKS.

The people of the Ozark region of Ar ansas and Missouri are petitioning Congress for a measure granting the public lands for ten miles on either side of the right of way to any railroad company that will build and operate a railroad

The Post-Dispatch has been a consistent advocate of caution in the granting of public lands to railroad companies and of justice in dealing with such grants. This case of the Ozark region seems to be one in which Congress may wisely make land grants to encourage railroad building as a measure of great benefit to the people concerned.

The fact that the people of the Ozark region are unanimously in favor of the grants and are earnestly urging Congress to act is proof of both the need and rightfulness of Congressional action. The region has been settled by thrifty people who occupy the best lands but who are cut off from transportation facilities. In return for the lands granted the people will have the opportunity of getting to market; the resources of the country will be developed and the value of the labor and products of the people greatly increased. Lands now waste will be cultivated and made a source of revenue. The Congressional delegations of Mis souri and Arkansas should take up the cause of these people and see that a proper measure to encourage railroad building in the Ozarks is passed by Con-

That is the kind of a circulation which is of the highest value to advertisers. The home paper is not thrown down after a mere glance at headlines. It is read all through.

This interview had no influence upon the National Committee, but it appears to have awakened the conscience of a man who "touched" Col. Bright for a 110 bill about the time the Tammany delegates were declaring that Grover Cleveland could not be elected, for the borrower returned the money a few days ago with a polite note saying that, masmuch as Col. ling in and the lists will hardly be still rolling in and the lists will hardly be ready for publication until next Sunday. Enough have already been received, however, to satisfy the officials of the association that the so-called boycott of the little clique of disgruntled breeders and owners at Lexington, Ky., amounts to nothing, as far as St. Louis is concerned. As a matter of fact, the guaranteed stakes all over the West filled much better than the added money events, which the boysotters deney events, which the boysotters de-nded. This result confirms the predictions of weN-posted horsemen that the Lexing-ton bulldozers are without influence outside the guaranteed stakes would not injure

The Mound City is destined to become the greatest racing point in the West, and as a natural consequence it will also become the leading market for thoroughbreds in the country. When this time rolls around the Fair Association may have a chance to even up old scores with some of the Lexington breeders that were foremost in bringing about the recent boycott. In connection with the boycott it will be interesting; no doubt, to show how the guaranteed and added money stakes of the Oakley Association filled. The list is as follows:

Pittsburg and Cleveland in connection with securing Whittington Park at Hot Springs for spring practice. Besides the advantages the Arkansas health resort offers ball clubs in the way of conditioning their players for the regular season, the resort is packed with wealthy health-seekers that patronize base ball extensively, thereby enabling the clubs to make money. Von der Ahe's Secretary, B. S. Muckenfuss, stated recently that he was satisfied that Cleveland and Pittsburg would make at least $5,000 each at the Springs this year.

"We were figuring on securing the ball park down there," said Mr. Muckenfuss, "and President Von der Ahe was greatly chagrined when he learned that Tebeau and Mack had, gotten in ahead of him. pire Club's regular referee, officiated, as usual.

The fight was hotly contested from start to finish. Hall showed up best in the early part of the battle, but he was unfortunate in not being able to punch Joe out when the latter was on the go. Just when Hall looked a sure winner Choynski recovered himself wonderfully and snatched victory from the jaws of defeat. Hall floored him in the ninth round and he was down nines seconds. When he got up he dropped again from exhaustion.

The call of time prevented Hall from finishing him. Choynski's exhibition of gameness was wonderful and the manner in which he pulled himself together again, after the terrific punishment he had received from Hall; was simply astonishing. A right hand punch on the jaw, following a heavy left on the face, settled Hall in the unlucky thirteenth. Jim's winning form shifted after the ninth round.

Senator Davis Says They Must Be Affirmed by Congress.

THIS NATION THE JUDGE

Whether an Infraction of the Principles of the Doctrine Has Been Committed by European Powers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A local paper nts the following from Senator Davis on lution on the Monroe doctrine of-

My resolution applied the Monroe doctrine to the present time and existing conditions. It asserts the right of the United States to judge in all cases as they arise, whether an infraction of the principles embodied in that doctrine has been committed by any European power. It seems proper, at present time, that Congress should make the declaration contained in this resolution for the reason that, from the date of the pramulgation of the doctrine by President Monroe, the fact that it has never been affirmed by Congress has in diplomatic correspondence, and particularly recently, been asserted as impairing its force and efficiency, and even as a denial of its present existence.

CUSHMAN K. DAVIS. My resolution applied the Monroe doctrin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.—Many Sen-ators believe that the Davis resolution will pass the Senate, but not without strong op-position.

pass the Senate, but not without strong opposition.

When the resolution passes the Senate it will go to the House, where it will be referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. This committee may not be in such haste to give its indorsement as the Senate committee has been. Chairman Hitt, it is well known, is opposed to any legislative enactment of the Monroe doctrine. He believes with many others that it is unwise and unsafe to attempt to define by legislation just where the United States should draw the line in the varying cases that may arise.

Those who favor the resolution call attention to the fact it goes no farther than did President Monroe, who said:

"The American continents are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power. It is impossible that we should behold foreign interposition in any form with indifference."

Monroe's position was based on Jefferson's, who said before Monroe promulgated his famous doctrine:

"We must oppose with all our means the transfer of the South American colonies to any power by conquest, cession or acquisition in any other way."

THE COMMISSION'S DUTIES. England and Venezuela Asked to Aid in the Search for Facts.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21 .- The Govhave been invited by the Venezuelan Boundary Commission, now in session here, to submit to it all the evidence in their possession to further the work of the Commission, to be represented before it by attorneys, and all of this with the reservation that such representation and appearance neys, and all of this with the reservation that such representation and appearance shall not be deemed an abandonment of any rights or position heretofore assumed. It has done this in order that the proceedings of the Commission may not be said to be ex parte; that the truth may appear, and that time may be saved in the inquiry with which the commission is charged. with which the commission is charged.

The invitation goes in the shape of a letter with which the commission is charged. The invitation goes in the shape of a letter to Secretary Oliney, who has made response, saying that he has transmitted a copy of the Commission's views to the two Governments concerned. These facts came out after the meeting of the Commission yesday, although the letter was drawn up and sent to the Secretary of State at its last meeting, Wednesday, Jan. 15.

The most significant part of the letter to Mr. Oliney is that portion in which the Commission gives its conception of the scope of its duties, as follows:

"It must have suggested itself to you, as it no doubt has to the President, that this Commission authorized to ascertain and report the boundary line between two foreign nations bears only a remote resemblance to those tribunals of an international character of which we have had several examples in the past. They were constituted by or with the consent of the disputants themselves and were authorized by the parties immediately concerned to pronounce a final judgment. various interests upon whose diligence and skill the tribunal might safely rely for all the data and the arguments essential to the formation of an intelligent judgment. Their functions were, therefore, confined to the exercise of judicial powers, and they might fairly expect to reach a result satisfactory to their own consciences, while it commanded the respect of those whose interests were directly involved.

"The present Commission, neither by the mode of its appointment, nor by the nature of its duties, may be said to belong to tribunals of this character. Its duty will be discharged if it shall diligently and fairly seek to inform the executive of certain facts touching a large extent of territory in which the United States has no direct interest. Whatever may be the conclusion reached, no territorial aggrandizement nor material gain in any form can accrue to the United States. The sole concern of our Government is the peaceful solution of the controversy between two friendly powers, for the just and honorable settlement of the life to disputed territory and the protection of the United States against any fresh acquisitions in this hemisphere on the part of any European State."

Says the Danger Has Passed

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 21.—Secretary of State Oney believes that all danger of trouble with England over the Venezuelan boundary dispute has passed. He has said to a leading member of Congress that the affair wears an entirely different look now than it did a few weeks ago.

The Secretary did not say what arrangement had been made with Great Britain, or what the nature of the settlement would be, but he did say that the prospects for an amicable understanding were regarded by him as certain. In fact, he felt certain that a settlement of the whole matter would be made by the two governments before the Venezuelan Commission could make its investigation and report.

Canada's Loyalty.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The St. James Gagette this afternoon gives prominence to the views of the Hon. J. W. Longley, Attorney-General for Nova Scotia, on the dispute between the United States and Great Britain regarding Venezuela. The St. James Gazette says it regards his views as being "specially striking testimony of the loyalty of Canada, since it comes from a member of the Liberal party which has always been supposed to desire closer relations with the United States."

us to call your attention to the fact that large quantities of explosives are stored and handled in the business districts of this city, endangering life and property, as illustrated by the terrible explosion and consequent loss of life on Jan. 2, 1896, at No. 309 North Second street.

"We believe that dealers, if properly approached, would remove their goods outside the limits of this city.

"We would suggest that you appoint a committee of five members of this Exchange whose duty it shall be to use all honorable means to secure peaceable removal. Should the dealers refuse, it shall be the duty of said committee to co-operate with such other persons or committees as shall be interested and secure, if possible, the passage of such ordinances as will compel them to do so.

The letter was referred to the Committee on Legislation, of which W. P. Kennett is Chairman, with instructions to investigate. Chairman Kennett had not seen the communication. "On first thought," said he, "this subject appears to be one deserving of prompt attention. There is no doubt that explosives in any considerable quantities are exceedingly dangerous to life and property, and individually I shall be in favor of the strictest enforcement of the law if one covering the case exists. Col. Nathan Cole said: "I believe that immediate action should be taken by every commercial body in the city and by citizens to secure the removal from the city limits of all explosives above a small quantity. The recent disastrous explosion speaks for itself. The loss of life in that case was terrible and is apt to happen again."

J. C. Van Blarcom said: "Steps should be taken at once to prevent a recurrence of the explosion of Jan. 2. If there is no law regulating the matter one should be passed."

Mrs. Ellen M. Henrorin's Elequent Ex planation of Woman's Function in Public Affairs.

The Federation Convention of Women's 50 pieces 36-inch Clubs of Missouri met in the hall of the Wednesday Club, corner of Washington and efferson avenues, at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday in black, the meeting was called to order. It was a representative body of ladies, selected from the highest and most intellectual walks of life. They came not alone from St. Louis, but from all over the State.

The object of the Federation is not to further the interests of any one class. It does not contemplate woman's suffrage. The various clubs represented desire to organize the State Federation for the very reason that prompted the organization of the individual clubs.

The clubs represented are of a purely social, intellectual, literary or philanthropic nature. Politics and all similar topics are tabooed. Henrotin of Chicago, President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who is to address the State conference of women's clubs at Union Club Hall Tuesday afternoon, is the guest of Mrs. P. N. To a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday morning she outlined the subject matter of her address and talked entertainingly about her theories.

she outlined the suoject matter of her address and talked entertainingly about her theories.

"My address will principally deal with organization and its philosophy," she said, "but I shall also outline the objects of the federation and the practical features of its work. I shall base my remarks upon the utterances of three great men, as illustrating the trend of thought of three practical thinkers on the subject. I have selected a great labor leader to illustrate the economic view, Prince Bismarck to illustrate the political aspect and Cardinal Gibbons to express the spiritual point of view.

"Two forces, education and the woman question, are destined to influence and modify social conditions. Education is being more widely disseminated and diversified by university extension. It is by education that the world must advance. Woman's development has always been through the peaceful arts. She has ever been the practical sex. Man has always been the originator and philosopher. No woman ever originated a creed or philosophy, but it remains for them to put the theories, both religious and sooial, into practice. She carremains for them to put the theories, both religious and social, into practice. She car-des them out, observes them in her home relations and instills them into the budding mind of youth.

"Women and men have radically different ideas of practical politics. To a man practical politics means attachment to some party, and according support to it under all conditions and circumstances. To women practical politics means clean streets, proper enforcement of municipal regulations, the administration of law with a view to securing the benefits intended. Women look at the results accomplished as the material point in politics. The Federation of Women's Clubs aims to secure political results by divesting such questions of the glamor of partisanship and directing every energy to their actual accomplishment.

There is another story which Avery's friends say explains this action. The plaintiffs recently brought suit against Rose & Parle, brokers, to secure money that Avery is said to have lost in their brokerage rooms. It is said that Avery is the main witness and that they want his services before he is brought to trial in his own case.

HAD BEEN CALLED A BULLY.

To Prove He Wasn't He Punched Alder man Rogers' Face at a Council Meeting.

One Alderman punching the face of another Alderman during an open session of the City Council was an incident of Monday night at Belleville, Ill. The Alderman who got punched had hinted mildly a few days before that the Alderman who did the punching was a bully. To demonstrate that he was not a bully. To demonstrate that he was not a bully the Alderman who did the punching assaulted the Alderman who got punched in the presence of the Mayor and Chief of Police and all the other Alderman who got punched says he will resign.

Last Saturday a sensational asticle appeared in an alternoon paper of Belleville, based on an alleged interview with Alderman City Council were denominated toughs and rowdles. Although Mr. Rogers denied using these epithets, he admitted having spoked of the bluffing propensities of some of the members, and the conclusion was drawn that he had Alderman Philip Yung uppermost in mind, as it was known that no one or two occasions he had assumed a menacing attitude toward Mr. Rogers when they did not agree in the Council meetings. As Mr. Yung was known to be of a belligerent disposition, it was expected that there would be trouble at the next Council meetings. It took place Monday evening and a large crowd gathered in the expectation of having some excitement. Nobody went away disappointed. One Alderman punching the face of while in this position he received several more ugly jabs.

When the first blow was struck Mayor Sunkel, who, up to this time, had done nothing except to mildly caution the two men, arose and called upon Chief of Police Obst to restore order. Before Obst and Fire Chief Nebgen could reach the two men Janitor Vogel and Alderman Kuni had interposed forcibly between Rogers and Yung and the uproar. Chief Obst laid his hand upon Yung and turning to the Mayor asked his pleasure. The Mayor did not reply.

Alderman Gebhard moved to adjourn to Tuesday evening, but the motion was lost. The Chief released Yung and he resumed his seat. Rogers asked to be excused.

Aldermen Gebhard and Herr left with him without permission.

Business was resumed and concluded without the Major reprimanding Yung or giving any sign of displeasure.

was asked what action would be taken in the matter. He said he had seen several county officers enter the chamber and he supposed they would do something. Being asked if it was a case calling for action by the county authorities he look embarrassed and said he didn't really know.

On being pressed further he finally said with manifest reluctance: "I suppose complaint will be made against Mr. Yung. Yes, we will have to make complaint against him. We will have to do it."

A reason for Mayor Sunkel's apparent ap-

A reason for Mayor Sunkel's apparent approval of Yung's conduct is not far to seek. The newspaper article referred to also contained strictures on His Honor, and although Mr. Rogers has since repudiated the language imputed to him the Mayor has made no effort to conceal his resentment. Rogers is Secretary of the Standard Foundry Company and a member of the Presbyterian Church. Yung is a carpenter and resides in the West End. Rogers declares he will resign his seat in the Council.

AWAKENED BY FIRE

Franklin Avenue Tenement Dwellers Have an Unpleasant Experience.

About thirty negroes—men, women and children—rushed pell mell from the third floor of 1108 Franklin avenue at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. They did not stop to dress, either.

The excitement was due to a blase in the rear of John Brunner's hat store, on the ground floor. The flames extanded to the second floor, which was occupied by Brunner's family. When the engines arrived the fire was promptly extinguished.

As soon as the fire was put out the shivering, tenants mustered up sufficient courage to ascend and secure their clothing, but they sought other quarters for the remainder of the night.

Brunner estimates his loss at $5,000. He carries $5,000 insurance. He thinks the fire started from a defective gas jet.

having some excitement. Nobody wont away disappointed.

Alderman Yung was in an ugly mood, and it was evident that he would not go out of his way to avoid trouble. Everything went smoothly for about twenty minutes. Then an ordinance was reported from the Ordinance Committee, of which Mr. Rogers is chairman. Mr. Yung is also a member of the committee and was immediately on his feet protesting against action on the ordinance, as he had not been consulted about it. Mr. Rogers replied that he hadewing the notice on Mr. Yung said he was there, and asked it Mr. Rogers mand Mr. Yung had not put in an appearance.

Mr. Yung said he was there, and asked it Mr. Rogers and Mr. Yung had not put in an appearance.

Mr. Yung said he was there, and asked it Mr. Rogers meant to call him a liar.

Mr. Rogers selled to be excused, soldier, when Mr. Rogers and Mr. Yung had not put in an appearance.

The latter was seemingly spotling for a fight and began to get louder, when Mr. Rogers and Mr. Yung sold he was obliged to pass by Mr. Yung's deek. As he approached, Yung arose and barring the way, demanded to know if Mr. Rogers meant to call him a liar.

Yung, with an oath, struck Rogers a victous blow in the face. Rogers was stasgored by the blow and as both hands were occupied with his hat and on each blow. When the first blow was struck Mayor Sunkel, who, up to this time, had done nothing except to mildly caution the two men, antore ougly jabs.

mes imposed. The enforcement of the law has been rigid pending the Supreme Court's decision.

Judge Burgess bandled the law without gloves. He starts out by declaring it clearly in conflict with that section of the constitution providing that the General Assembly shall not pass any local or special law. When a general law can be made applicable no special or local law can be enacted. "If the act is vand," said the Judge, "the Legislature might by one act stop a farmer from ploughing on Sunday, by authority they could close up blacksmith shops, and so on until all kinds of labor could be prohibited on Sunday by special acts covering certain divisions of labor when clearly the same end could be accomplished by a general law forbidding all kinds of labor on the Sabbath."

The object of the constitution, it is manifest, is to prohibit special and local legislation and to substitute general law in place of it, whenever by a general law the same ends could be subserved. The conclusion of the Sourt was that the law is invalid because it is in conflict with the constitution. All the judges concurred in the decision very hard, for though Sunday closing meant the loss of a few dimes they were more than glad to get the holiday. The hotel barbers and clubhouse tonsorial artists who have been harvesting 50 cents a scrape by surreptitious evasion of the law will regret its knockout for other reasons.

The boss barbers, who are looking out for their incomes, and the general public of the male persuasion, who found their personal liberty and comfort saddy hedged in, will gladly welcome the return to old conditions.

MISS LAMPE'S LITTLE BILL. The Stenographer Will Be $1,400 Ahead on the City Hall Investigation.

It is expected now that there will be a loud protest when the Heckel Investigating Committee puts in its claim for the pay of its stenographer. Miss Lampe, who has been doing the work, will have a nice little bill of something like $1,400 or at the rate f about $30 a day for every day she worked. Prior to appointment she was Heckel's private stenographer at a modest salary and was content to live along as the ordinary stenographer is compelled to do. When the committee was named she was appointed to do its work and she began at once to make money beyond the dreams of avarice. Her bill rolled up at a rate that bid fair to bankrupt the City Treasury.

Committee owing to of Kotany to numerous claims in. Gast, it of Kotany to stand in for the numerous claims that were pouring in. Gast, it is claimed, ontered into an agreement with Heckel to help out on the claim of the stenographer in return for help on other matters of a similar nature. The deal went through and Heckel was allowed to name the stenographer. Now there will be a fight over the claim, but it will probably go through.

his reply. "Do you intend to resume business this afternoon?" The entries were already on the wail and the crowd were making selections.

"O, I don't know," replied Waish. "We haven't decided whether we'll open or not." "Toure in a position to defy the police since Judge Murphy's decision, are you not?" "I don't know. I don't intend to defy them anyhow. I'd be foolish to do that."
"Do you fear the matter being taken before the Grand-jury?"
"I can't say as to that."

A QUARTER OF A MILLION. The Smith & Stoughton Shoe Co Ferced to the Wall.

The Smith & Stoughton Shoe Co. of Bos ton, with large retail houses in St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Milwaukee and Louisville, failed yesterday for $270,000. The company is capitalized at $1,500,000. The factories of the firm were at Si,500,000. The factories of the firm were at Stoughton, Mass., and their output was probably as large as from any single concern in the country.

Five years ago it was decided by the company to dispense with middlemen, and open retail stores in nearly every large city in the United States. The St. Louis branch was opened at 50 Olive street three years ago. J. B. Smith was manager. The heaviest of the local creditors is George L. Edwards, who holds the firm's paper for $8,548. Publisher George W. Knapp & Co. are creditors to the extent of $552.48 for advertising, and the Tennent-Stribling Shoe Co. has a claim of $554. All three sued out attachments for the amounts named. Manager Smith says the St. Louis house will resume at an early date.

At the same time the suits were filed here creditors in all of the other cities named sued out attachments aggregating a quarter of a million dollars and the stocks of the company in those cities are now in the hands of sheriffs. The action of the creditors was preconcerted and was caused by the embarrassment of the company through the increased price of leather and the dull business following the holidays.

In the assignment at Boston the banks of that city figure prominently as creditors. The claims of the National Bank of Boston, the Third National Bank of Boston, the Whitman National Bank of Whitman, Mass., and the Commonwealth Shoe and Leather Co. have been filed and aggregate $44,191.

Writers' Club Meeting.

ms night. Mrs. Mary Ferguson, Mrs. Whiting, Mr. Pelton, Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Moore, he Mrs. Virginia McCarthy, the Misses M. Gage and Mabel Martin, and the Messrs, James L. Loring and Louis Frehgh were admitted to membership. A number of entertaining papers were read and a committed to was appointed to select a club color flower and motto. The Secretary was instructed to invite the National Editorial Association to hold its next annual meeting in St. Louis.

der the title of the "Lyons Mail."

Next Saturday night Edwardes' Royal English Opera Company will close its long and successful run in New York City. The company will at once board a special train and with two carloads of special scenery will be whisked away to St. Louis, where they will produce W. H. Glibert's latest success, "His Excellency." The company and scenic accessories are identical with the London production. There is only one American girl with the company, Miss Nancy McIntosh, a sister of Burr McIntosh, the well-known American actor. Glibert's libretto is said to be the cleverest thing he has yet done and Composer Carr's music is yeary Sullivanesque and catchy. The company goes from here to Chicago, then back to New York, whence they sail for London in May, to begin rehearsing for the next Glibertian production.

Writers' Club Meeting.

A little story is floating about the corridors of the City Hall which may explain Miss Lampe's appointment. It is said that was held at the Southern Hotel Monday town by the Elevated road. As he reached Third avenue a caole car passed and he stepped directly behind it, not noticing that one from the opposite direction was right upon him. The corner of the car struck him and threw him back several yards.

him and threw him back several yards. He landed on his head.

Gen. Ewing, who was a member of the law firm of Ewing, Whitman & Ewing of this city, was born in Lancaster, O., in 1829. He was admitted to the bar in Cincinnati in 1856, and went to Kanasa during the free soil strugglers. When the State of Kanasa was admitted to the Union he was appointed Chief Justice, but resigned to enter the Union army in the Civil War as Colonel of the Eleventh Regiment of Kanasa. He rose to the rank of Brigadier-General and afterwards was breveted Major-General, and had command of the Department of the Missouri.

had command of the Department of the Missouri.

He went to Washington in 1885 as the assistant of ex-Secretary of the Interior Browning. He went back to Ohio in 1870 and entered politics. He was a member of Congress from 1877 to 181 and in 1879 ran for Governor on the Democratic ticket, but was defeated. In 1831 he came to New York to practice law. For many years he was President of the Ohio Scolety here. He was at one time counsel to the Building Department, which position he resigned on Jan. 1, last.

Gen. Ewing has five children, all grown up. Mrs. Ewing is still living.

Congressman Crowley's Seat.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. II.—The seat of Congressman Milles Crowley of Texas is in danger if the arguments of contestant A. J. Rosenthal are well founded. The case may come up to-morrow. To-day Rosenthal expressed the belief that he would be seated. He is an attorney at law and editor of a German paper at Galveston.

CALUMET CLUB SOLD.

for $100,000.

It was the transfer of the southwest corner of Tenth and Locust from Henry Semple Ames and Edgar Ames to John O'F. Delaney. The property fronts & feet on Locust street and runs back 108 feet on Tenth street to an alley. It is occupied by an old three-story residence, formerly occupied by the Calumet Club, and later by the Mercantile Library during the construction of the library building at the corner of Broadway and Locust street.

Mr. Delaney paid $100,000, or not quite $1.-200 per front foot for the property. He proposes to erect on the property a handsome wholesale business structure. He is consulting with his architect with a view to having plans drawn at ones.

The corner has been in the Ames family for many years. It formerly brought in a good rental, but for ten years it has practically been idle, owing to the unsuitability of the business purposes. The Ames family also owns the property on which the St. Nicholas Hotel is built, and the corner just opposite—the property bought of Mr. Delaney and occupied by the Simmons Hardware Co. as a warehouse.

MUST GO HOME

John O'F. Delaney Gets the Preperty Mrs. Campbell's Relatives Don't Agree With Her Views.

One of the most important real estate transactions of the new year was closed Tuesday morning by James M. Carpenter Io., confined at the City Hospital for religious hallucinations and who developed a new wheel that there is no place like a hospital, will probably be taken home to-day.

Semple Ames and Edgar Ames to John O'F.

Last week her sister, Mrs. Alice Pound.

came here to take Mrs. Campbell back to Iowa. Mrs. Campbell was so charmed with her quarters in cell No. 8 at the hospital that she refused to leave.

Mrs. Pound telegraphed her brother and he arrived Monday night. They will try and induce Mrs. Campbell to return home quietly, but if she refuses force will be used.

Supreme Court Dismisses Mrs. Ceyle's Paramour From Custody.

The Supreme Court has reversed the de-cision of the Court of Criminal Correction in the case of Henry W. Chandler, charged with unlawful cohabitation with Mrs. Kitty with unlawful cohabitation with Mrs. Kitty Coyle. In the opinion of Judge Sherwood the evidence was not sufficient to convict under the statutes. The decision was reversed and Chandler was discharged from custody.

The scandal which terminated in Chandler's trial and sentence is vividly remembered. James F. Coyle and Henry W. Chandler had been fast friends. During the former's absence from the city Chandler ingratiated himself into the favor of his friend's wife. Coyle became suspicious and returning unexpectedly one night, accompanied by several detectives, found Chandler and Mrs. Coyle in bed together. The Lotharlo was kicked out of the house and Coyle entered suit for divorce. Chandler was tried in the Court of Criminal Correction and sentenced to six months on the rock pile and a fine of 3500.

JUDGE PEABODY'S TRIAL Goes Over Until Friday, as the Civic Federation Were Not Notified.

Judge Peabody appeared at the office of Mayor Walbridge at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to answer to the charges made against him by members of the Civic Federation, in which he is accused of maifeasance in office. He was represented by ex-Judge Beymour D. Thompson and Hon, Nathan Frank. The former will conduct the case, So far as he could see, Mr. Thompson claimed, there was nothing to show that any wrong had been committed within the meaning of the law, and for that reason he moved for a dismissal of the charges, which was denied.

Several police officers were then called, and testified to dismissal of cases without scoring any material point.

An adjournment until Friday was then announced, as the Civic Federation were not represented. The Federation sent a communication to the Mayor, stating that as the first intimation they had received that the Peabody trial would take place to-day was a telephone message at 11 o'clock they would not be able to produce their witnesses or appear by counsel to-day. Judge Peabody appeared at the office of Interesting developments are anticipated as the outcome of the meeting of the directors of the Merchants' Life Association of the United States Tuesday afternoon. Rumor has it that General Manager William A. Ellis will not be re-elected. It is also intimated that Ellis may be asked to explain certain allegations growing out of a "shadewing" process to which he was subjected by private detectives at a time when there was bitter business antagonism between him and some clients of his company. Mr. Ellis is the man who had a fight with his son in the Union Trust Building.

Trial of Deputy Sheriff Vogt for Accepting Bribes.

Ex-Deputy Sheriff Edward Vogt refused to nake any statement when jury bribery harges were brought against him last sum-ner. Tuesday he made his first statement.

"When did you see Mr. Tillay?"

"I saw him that Monday. He came to me on Tuesday and said he wanted to get off. I told him I couldn't let him off unless I found that no jurors were needed. I told him to come back at 2 o'clock. He came back and I told him to go and report the next morning. He said he would make it all right."

"Do you remember this Mr. Martin?"

"Ido not. I don't remember ever having seen him."

"Do you remember Mr. Proskauer?"

"Yes, but I had no conversation with him until I was instructed by Judge Flitcraft to pick out fifteen jurors for Judge Klein's court. I asked Mr. Proskauer his name. He told me he didn't have to give it. I replied that there was no use being stubborn, that I would get it anyhow. I then went to Judge Flitcraft, who fined him 12 and afterward stayed the fine. I never had any other conversation with him."

The witness stated that as a result of the exposure he was discharged from the position of Deputy Sheriff.

On cross-examination Vogt stated that he had been given no authority by the court to excuse jurors and was induced to do so by sympathy and the statement of the jurors that they would make it all right.

The instructions were altogether favorable to the State and under the evidence left little room for any verdict other than a conviction. The reading of the instructions was followed by the arguments of the attorneys.

FREE HOMESTEAD BILL. The Interior Department Opposes the

Adoption of the Law. WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.-The House Com washington, Jan. 21.—The House Committee on Public Lands has received from Secretary Smith a strong adverse report against the free homestead bill. The bill absolves all persons completing five years residence on the lands taken and occupied under the homestead laws from making further payment to secure their title, other than frees incident to filing and obtaining proof. The measure is a sweeping one, and land office officials estimate its passage would involve at least $30,000,000 of cost to the Government and $18,000,000 in Oklahoma alone. This is the amount paid to the Indians for the relinquishing of their lands there. Commissioner Lamoreaux of the General Land Office, in a report accompanying Secretary Smith's letter, urges several reasons why the bill should not passand says: "The payment of money considerations for lands by settlers thereon in these cases appears to be the foundation on which the whole transaction between them and the Government was based and without which the Government would not have entered into engagements with the Indians by which the acquisition of title by settlers was rendered possible. The purpose of the bill seems to be to repeal all the provisions of existing laws under which homestead entries have been made for public lands for which a certain price per acre is to be paid by the entrymen.

"Large tracts of land have been acquired through purchase from Indians. For some of this land the Indians have already been paid by the Government, and for other pertions the Government is still responsible. There are also abandoned military reservations involved which have become valuable because of their location, usually in settled communities, and persons entering them had a distinct understanding that they were to pay for them a certain grice per acre."
